Real estate made easy!

December 11, 2013

Castlehaven turning 40

It's not often you come across a real estate business where most staff have been part of the sales team for more than 10 years but that's what has been created at Castle Hill real estate Castlehaven.

The agency celebrates its 40th birthday in 2014 and its principal Glenn Funnell says he is proud of the longevity of not only the business but also the many staff he employs.

"My dad and I started this business with a clear vision to support families on their journey to purchasing a home in the Hills," Mr Funnell said.

"Today, one of my proudest achievements is that not only have we achieved success in the competitive Castle Hill real estate market but we also have created a team of local real estate experts who have chosen to be part of the Castlehaven team for many years.

"Among them is General Manager Deb Newton who joined the business 28 years ago. Deb's a Castle Hill High girl and knows this area like the back of her hand. There wouldn't be a street she hasn't driven through over the years and I know when people list their home for sale with her, or one of our other local experts, they are just going to get the most trustworthy and informed advice about what's happening in the local real estate market.

"My vision was always about real estate in the Hills and providing a service that was so exceptional that we could remain a part of the community for many, many years. At Castlehaven we're unashamedly experts in, and solely focused on, the real estate needs and trends of the Hills."

Other long-term employees who live and work around the Hills include Colin Moss who has been with Castlehaven 18 years and Vicky Williams who is celebrating 13 years selling homes in the Hills with Castlehaven.

"I don't know if it's some sort of record but I do know you can't survive this long in a local area without being trustworthy and excellent at what you do," Mr Funnell said.
